Fireside Stories Pt. I:
Beads, Beats & Beyond!
International Video Conference

Teacher’s Guide
Dear Teacher,

We would like to extend a warm welcome to the Fireside Part I & II Video Conference! This conference is possible through a partnership between the Centre for Global Education and TakingITGlobal. We are excited to have you and your students engage in our interactive virtual classroom and participate in the live event on March 14, 2017.

The Fireside Chats video conferences are geared to giving opportunities to acknowledge, promote, and celebrate the culture of Indigenous populations throughout Canada. During these video conferences, students and teachers will be immersed into Indigenous cultures through hands on learning. For example, during Fireside Chats Pt. I, elementary students will be teaching secondary students how to sing in Cree! Fireside Pt. II Chief Calvin Bruneau will be joining LIVE to discuss the untold Indigenous history of Edmonton, students and educators will explore different monuments with Chief Calvin that hold an undying importance to specifically the Papaschase Cree peoples. Students will be introduced to movements surrounding the fight for acknowledgment of burial sites around Edmonton, and the journey Chief Calvin has embarked on towards reconciliation.

To help prepare for the event, we have created this guide to help you facilitate your students’ participation in the video conference and the pre-conference activities. It contains instructions on how to join the virtual classroom, through which they can/will collaborate with their peers all over the world, and an overview of the lessons housed there. All resources mentioned in this curricular guide will be found linked to the corresponding Activities inside the virtual classroom.

Thank you again for being willing to reach beyond the class and connect your students to their peers, as we all seek to help promote awareness of Indigenous cultures.

If you have any questions or concerns, feel free to reach out to our team at encounters@tiged.org

| Culture and Identity | Culture is a key foundation to one’s identity. Have students explore their identity by having class and group discussions surrounding their identity.
- Have a group discussion around the components of culture, create a mind map on the smartboard/whiteboard
- Have students choose the elements they find the most important
- With their main choices, have students create a representation of themselves. This can be in the form of a flag, poster, poem, essay, rap, song, (word representations need to actually label the element ie. “music makes a large part of my identity because…”)

Secondly, have students form groups of 3-4.
- Have students discuss their representation of themselves.
- What was different among students? What was similar?

Before the video conference, discuss the following questions:
What element of culture is the most important to you?
Do you think you would be the same person if that part of your culture was taken away from you?
Discuss the idea of “culture genocide.” What does this mean?
Brainstorm possible solutions to any issues previously mentioned.

Students will share their findings at the video conference, students are also encouraged to bring their “Culture and Identity” project with them to share with the other schools as well as the guest speaker. |
